DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 6 is objected to because of the following informalities: the phrasing "is expected with reference to a speed thereof" is not understood. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wada (US 5,803,951). Wada discloses the claimed invention, a gas chromatograph comprising a sample chamber [14], split gas path [18] having control valve [19], pressure sensor [16], and control unit [25]. The control unit includes a comparison device such that the valve is controlled to be opened to such a degree that a predetermined chamber pressure (as measured by the pressure sensor) is maintained (see abstract). The control unit further includes a closed-loop control which quickly maintains a preset opening degree of the valve [14] while the comparison device determines that the increment in internal pressure exceeds a preset threshold value during a sample injection, and then returning to the initial value, optionally with the use of a timer to measure a specified length of time (see abstract and column 4 lines 1-65). See entire disclosure, especially Figures 1-3 and columns 3-4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 7 and 8 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wada (US 5,803,951). Wada teaches the claimed invention except for the use of an autosampler. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use an autosampler in the invention taught by Wada to perform the sample injection, since autosamplers are notoriously well known in the gas chromatography art to be more repeatable, reliable, and controllable than manual injection. Furthermore, it has been held that broadly providing a mechanical or automatic means to replace manual activity which has accomplished the same result involves only routine skill in the art. See In re Venner, 120 USPQ 192.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Miyoshi (JP 2000249693) and Fukushima (US 5,391,221) disclose control of a split valve to reduce injection losses. Henderson (US 5,431,712) and Nakagawa (US 5,339,673) disclose control of split valves.
